

Ready to get in front of that Camera or Microphone?

This course will help you to prepare:

Radio TV Performance

In conjunction with KGLP, UNM-Gallup will be offering a 3-unit course for Spring 2012:

Course: Radio TV Performance
CRN: 43986- CJ 262 (400)
Credits: 3 hours

Time: (Tuesdays and Thursdays, 3:15 p.m. until 4:30 p.m., with individual labs by appointment.)

Course Overview: We are often called to address friends or groups using audio gear, or to get in front of a camera for everything from social networking, demos for job applications, or even auditions and media performances for YouTube, education, or even film. Techniques in this class will focus on vocal performance, body language, being present for the camera, blocking, scripts, and improvisation. There may be discussion of the overlap between traditional radio and television broadcast technologies and media such as online streaming, mobile devices, and social networks.

Grading will be based on a combination of participation in class exercises, lab practice, and individual and/or group projects, such as demo tapes or presentations.
